An Appeal

FELLOWS, an entirely new editorial staff has been appointed. Our first issue may be a disappointment to you and to ourselves but "be patient still and suffer us a month longer to endure" and we hope to put out a paper, which will hold to the high standard, set by Charles C. Fleming, in the past two years. We do ask you to consider the fact that we have gotten this edition out in one week but trust us not to ask for your sympathy again.

Our paper has always been "Quality" rather than "Quantity." Now that our school is every year increasing, we are trying to raise both. We cannot do it ourselves. We need the co-operation of every man in this school. Don't dwindle your time away in perfect idleness. Strive for success with the pen—hand your work to the staff—and after the Publication, you have the opportunity to see your efforts in print and thereby learn whether your brains are above or below par.

Longfellow and Carlyle did not learn to write in a day. Much secret talent lies hidden because the person hasn't the energy to be a "progressive" in all things. Great narrative power is something brought to light by mere chance.

Let this be your chance. Let each one contribute his small part and all this mass of combined efforts is bound to bring out a good BAYONET.

To Our Faculty.

WE, the corps of nineteen hundred and eleven, extend a most hearty welcome to the new members of our faculty, which is composed of Captains Mecredy and Robinson from the Virginia Military Institute, and Captain Wine from Tennessee, who is a veteran in pedagogical ranks. All are competent, well-trained men, of a high sense of honor, living types of manhood, well able to instruct and be an example to those young, untrained minds within their realms.

But on the other hand, we mourn the loss of our brave and gallant (among the ladies) Captain Jacobs, who will always receive the "glad hand" and a little hay to "bunk on" when he returns to A. M. A.

We regret equally as much the loss of our famous Chemistry and Mathematical instructor, Captain Beard, who is farming, successfully we hope, near New Hope. We feel sure that he will condescend to pay us a visit in the near future.

We are glad to learn that Captain Wiltshire is teaching school near Baltimore. We miss him very much in Athletics and to him we are much indebted for our success of last year. He developed the best basketball team that has ever worn the blue and white colors. We wish him continued success in his work.

Last, but by far not least, we welcome those of the faculty who have returned to us and we also admire them for their courage in that they are willing to undertake the awful task of making smart men out of a bunch of indifferent American boys. These brave instructors are Captains Fitzgerald and Yarbrough.

Major and Colonel Roller are with us as ever, in spirit and in work.

We expect Colonel to sympathize with us more this year than last, because he now has one to sympathize with him and make the rough paths more easily trodden.

All extend a hearty welcome to Major Charles Summerville Roller, III, and we certainly appreciate his short but frequent calls. As proudly he struts up the walk, surveying all things in general, every eye is inclined to him admiringly, prophesying his coming career as a football player.

Now fellows, if we will live and work by A. M. A.'s longstanding motto, Ad astra per aspera, we should be able to please our parents, gratify ourselves and make the world that much better.

I'se Gwine Back to Dixie

"I'se gwine back to Dixie;

I'se gwine back to Dixie;

I'se gwine where the orange blossoms grow;

For I hear the children calling,

I see their sad tears falling,

My heart turns back to Dixie, and I must go."

"Jed, do you know that song has a strange kind of fascination for me; I believe I'd be willing to do almost anything while under its influence and 'specially when Gabe plays it. Just listen.

Both young people ceased their conversation and and listened with attentive ears to the negro melody played somewhere back of the large, gleaming white mansion surrounded by a border of rich emerald-green magnolias, in full bloom, To their nostrils came the aromatic perfume of the glorious white blossoms.

"And just smell those magnolias," Catherine continued. "Somehow I always associate that song with magnolias. Perhaps its because the first time I ever heard it was just about this season, fifteen years ago and the magnolias were in full bloom. I remember it as well as yesterday. It was the day after father came back from Atlanta, bringing Gabe whom he had hired, with him. I was sitting under this very tree playing with my doll when Gabe started the song. Pretty soon he had everyone on the place as his audience and none of them were more interested and fascinated than I, and ever since that day the song has never lost its hold on me."

Again both stopped and listened to the music. Then Jed broke the silence.

"Cath, I've got something to tell you. I hate to do it, but it isn't a matter of choice. You know your father said that while he didn't have any objection to me personally, he couldn't think of allowing his daughter to marry me—practically penniless—and since then I've about come to the conclusion that the only thing I can do is to try and go to New York and see if I can't get a fresh start there. Now, Cath, don't cry. I know it's hard, girlie, but can't you see it's the only thing to be done? I can't do anything on our plantation, as small as it is—and I've got to get a start somewhere."

"But—but, Jed, you'll forget all about me and go off and marry some hateful Yankee girl. I know you will. I don't want you to go. I—I don't want you," Catherine cried bitterly, beginning to sob.

"But, Cath—"

"Oh, I su—suppose it's the only thing to be done, but Jed it's so hard to see you go. Wh—when will you have to go anyway? This evening? Oh, Jed you can't leave that soon. Promise me that you'll not forget me, and that you'll come back as soon as you can."

"There, there, Cath, don't cry. Of course I'll not forget my sweetheart and it won't be long. I do hate to go, Cath, as much as you hate to see me, but sweetheart, dear, I've got to and you promise me Cath that you will always be true to me—love me and wait for me until I come?"

"Yes, Jed, yes."

"Now dearest. I've got to go. One kiss, my own one. Goodby, my Catherine, goodby."

"And remember, Jed, I'll wait for you and love you for—forever."

In a long lingering kiss their lips met and he was gone. As he reached the gate he turned. Catherine stood silhouetted in white against the dark trunks of the trees, her luminous brown eyes radiant with love. To his nostrils was borne—faintly now—the fragrance incense of the magnolias and fainter still he caught the notes of the twanging banjo.

"I'se gwine back to Dixie,
I'se gwine back to Dixie,
I'se gwine where the orange—"

And that was the picture he carried away with him.

* * * * *

Five years passed. Jed had gone to New York and succeeded. By a lucky investment he had become possessor of several hundred thousand dollars and now he lived regally, keeping bachelor apartments. But what of Catherine? When Jed left they had written regularly to each other but one day Jed mentioned a woman of his acquaintance in one of his letters. Catherine drawing on her imagination pictured a desperate case between Jed and his acquaintance, where in reality nothing more than a passing friendship existed. The breach widened and now for two years neither had written to the other.

One day as Jed was seated at a low bay window at the club the musical twanging of a banjo bore itself to him. On the block below coming up the street was a genuine Southern darkey singing and playing the old familiar Dixie lyrics. From "My Old Kentucky Home" he swung into "Old Folks at Home" and then—what was that? when had he heard that last?

"I'se gwine back to Dixie,
No more I'se gwine to wander,
My heart turns back to Dixie,
I can't stay here no longer."

and what was that he smelt? Could it be magnolias! Yes, a waiter was just placing a vase full of the glorious creamy blooms on the table. Vividly the scene came back to him—the magnolias—the song—and Catherine.

The song continued:

"I miss the old plantation,
My home and my relations.

My heart turns back to Dixie,
And I must go."

The darkey passed and went on but not so his music. Jed sat deep in his chair humming the lines.

"My heart turns back to Dixie,
And I must go."

Yes! his heart was turning back to Dixie and he would go!

Two hours later he was seated in a Pullman, speeding toward the sunny southern fields—and Catherine.

* * * * *

As Jed turned in the well-remembered gate his heart gave a bound. Yes, there was Catherine, and all alone. He tiptoed up behind her and then stepped in front. For an instant she gazed at him with wide-open, wonder-filled eyes and then she was in his arms, her fair head resting on his shoulder as she sobbed for pure joy.

"Jed, oh Jed, I knew you'd come back to me. And you came with the magnolias. Just smell them. Oh, Jed, my own, don't leave me again, I know I was wrong, but please forgive me."

"Listen, Cath—" and he told her the story of how he was brought back, "and I could no more have kept from coming than the magnolias could have kept from blooming. My heart did turn back to Dixie and sweetheart, I had to come. Listen—!"

From the rear came the sweet refrain:

"I'se gwine back to Dixie,
I'se gwine back to Dixie,
I'se gwine where the orange blossoms grow,
For I hear the children calling,
I see their sad tears falling,
My heart turns back to Dixie, and I must go."

Our Doctor

If our head is kind of aching,
 "We get the pill."
If our lessons we are forsaking,
 "We get the pill."
If our teeth are kind of paining
And the drilling we are feigning
Because out doors it's raining
 "We get the pill."
If our feet are kind of numb,
 "We get the pill."
If we keep on we'll be dumb,
 "Because of pills."
If we are feeling kind of punk,
Just like after a big drunk,
From sleeping in our bunk
 "We get the pill."
If we are looking kind of bad,
 "We get the pill."
If we are feeling kind of sad,
 "We get the pill."
If we eat too much at a meal
We can hear Colonel Roller squeal,
Then we kindly reel
 "And take the pill."

If a pain comes in our back,
 "We get the pill."
If we eat too much "Jack,"
 "We get the pill,"
If on a dreary day
We hang our heads and say—
"I wish I were in the hay"
 "We get the pill."

If our brain is not working,
 "We get the pill."
If our duty we are shirking,
 "We get the pill."
I believe on Judgment Day
When we will all be at bay
Colonel will calmly say
 "Give 'em pills."

A. M. A. Cadets Engage in Big Egg Battle at Mount Sidney

Led by Major Roller

Between the hours of three and five-thirty, on Monday, March 24, a large body of cadets laid siege to Lindsey's store, an imposing structure in the progressive city of Mount Sidney.

The battle raged for about an hour, several men, including Captain Jeffries and Lieutenant Carter, being severely wounded.

Private Acree distinguished himself by leading an assault against the English general, Alexander, completely annihilating the forces of the latter.

Immediately following the surrender, Captain Yarbrough and First Lieutenant Fitzgerald were seen in the distance bringing up re-enforcements.

But one man was killed during the engagement, Private McKeever being the one to suffer this sad misfortune. His funeral took place at the Mount Sidney Opera House. Mr. Cunningham being requested to sing a solo at the obsequies rendered in enthralling bass tones, the best in his repertoire.

"My Country 'Tis of Thee."

A private, believed to bear the name of Gillette, was wounded, after the cessation of hostilities by an accidentally exploding egg. Shortly after the crime was committed, his assassin was arrested.

Y. M. C. A.

President T. F. CLEMMER
Vice-President..... T. M. ROBINSON
Secretary and Treasurer..... P. S. CLARK

The Y. M. C. A. was organized on October the first and the Officers where elected for the coming year. The present conditions point to the most successful Y. M. C. A., that has ever been conducted at A. M. A.

Everyone seems to take a personal interest in the work and seventy of the one hundred cadets are active members. The Association was agreeably surprised on October the eighth, when Mr. J. L. Jeffries Jr., our last year's president, of the University of Virginia, gave a short but interesting address. All enjoyed and profitted by it.

Now Fellows, the Y. M. C. A., is the finest organization in the land, so work for your fellowmen and for your principles.

Alumni Notes

The following A. M. A. boys are attending the University of Virginia: J. L. Jeffries, Jr., '11, Jack Parrish, '11, C. C. Fleming, '11, T. Y. Beckett, '11, J. H. McKinney, '11, M. B. Jarman, '08, T. B. Starrit, '08, and Bertram, '06.

O. B. Barker, '11, is attending Washington and Lee.

R. J. Borden, '08, is studying pharmacy at the University College of Medicine, Richmond, Va.

C. C. Carter, '11 is teaching school at Washington, Virginia.

T. H. Fravel, '11, is running a drug store at Woodstock, Virginia.

R. W. Hevener, '11, is working at home.

S. H. Parkins, '11, Jr., is working in Staunton, Virginia.

John Robinson, '10, is attending the University of Mississippi.

J. I. Menifee, '11, is attending V. P. I. at Blacksburg, Virginia.

E. M. Garber, '11, is studying Pharmacy at Richmond, Virginia.

Tom Kirkpatrick, '10, is attending Washington and Lee.

William D. Easley, who was senior captain here '09 and '10 is now in the insurance business with his father.

Neil Cunningham, '11, is at Davis and Elkins, and has made end on the football team.

William Collingwood, '11, is at work in an office in Wheeling, West Virginia.

Roth Clemans, '11, is working in his father's office at Wheeling, West Virginia.

H. O. Wyant, '11, is end on the football team at Marshal High School.

H. G. Jackson, '11, is working for his father.

Wm. McKeever, '11, is working in Lexington, Virginia.

R. T. Ashby, '11, is working in Boston.

W. B. Landes, '11, is attending the University of Virginia. He has made a good showing on the football field and is expected to make quarter back. The corps wishes him a successful year.

W. F. Welch, of last year's corps, is attending school at Carnegie Tech.

W. H. Spindle, '11, is working in Waco, Texas.

Lyle McCormick, '10, is attending Dunsmore Business College of Staunton.

"Skeet" Landes spent a few hours with us on Sunday. Come again "Skeeter."

Messrs. Jeffries, Parrish, McKinney, Price, Fleming, of '11, Mr. Baron, '06, and Mr. Bertram '07, spent a few days with us recently.

George Arbenz, '11, dropped off the B. & O. and spent several hours with us last week.

A Note of Thanks.

Gibson Harmon wishes to thank the corps for the kind remembrance of him in the time of sorrow.

A Regret.

The corps was sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Archer Harmon, uncle of Cadet Gibson Harmon, and extend their heartfelt sympathy.

Football Schedule for 1911

Sept. 29 V. M. I. at Lexington, Va.
Oct. 14 Staunton at Fort Defiance, Va.
Oct. 21 G. P. S. at Lewisburg, W. Va.
Oct. 23 G. P. S. at Lewisburg, W. Va.
Oct. 30 F. M. S. at Waynesboro, Va.
Nov. 4 S. M. A. at Fort Defiance, Va.
Nov. 11 W. F. S. at Woodberry Forrest, Va.
Nov. 18 F. M. S. at Fort Defiance, Va.
Nov. 25 R. M. A. at Fort Defiance, Va.
Nov. 30 Pending.

Football Prospects.

When the session of 1911-12 opened the prospect for a Football Team such as has always represented A. M. A. were very much in doubt, but with four monogram men back and a squad of thirty-five on the field every day since school opened, things have brightened up, and we are going to put a team that will show all our opponents that we still play ball at Rollers.

The old men are: Morrasy, at left end, which he held down so well last year, Acree is at right tackle for another year, and is playing his usual good game. Gallagher, has been changed from a half to quarter, and we feel sure he will gain many a yard for old A. M. A. Then Reid is playing left tackle and will surely fight his way.

Next is Gibbons, who in filling the place of our long to be remembered Collingwood at full back, with complete satisfaction. Also Burdett, Campbell and Carpenter, who will make good half backs.

Clemmer, T. at center has already secured his position.

Schwalb, Clemmer, F. Hawley and Bartholdi are all out for guards, and we surely will get two rushing men out of the four. At right end are Harmon and Fraser.

So we will have, as I said before, a team that will make our opponents take notice. Now with such a line-up as this and one old reliable coach, Maj. Roller, what do we need—nothing but hard work and lots of encouragement from the sidelines. Then when the December number of the BAYONET, is published we can give an account of a Championship Team.

A. M. A. vs. V. M. I.

The opening game of the season was played at Lexington against V. M. I. on September the twenty-ninth.

This game was played for practice more than anything else. Although out-weighted twenty pounds to a man and having only four day's practice, A. M. A. put up a strong game.

Considering that V. M. I. has one of the strongest teams in Virginia. We did well to hold them to 33 to 0. Though the corps, as a whole, was not satisfied with the score. The ones, who were not pleased with the out-come of the game, please remember that the teams of A. M. A. always play their best, and if defeated, it is after a hard fought game. So the "knockers" hereafter have a "boost" instead of a "knock" for the team.

A. M. A. vs. S. V.

October 14, 1911

Captain Jacobs was on the field followed by his bloody Staunton warriors at 3.00 o'clock sharp, and in a few minutes they were followed by the A. M. A. Varsity. This was the first time we had seen our men lined up and prepared for battle, so of course there was a great deal of excitement.

Staunton kicked off, and then the fun began. We took the ball within a few yards of their goal, where they tried to punt, but we blocked it and made our first touchdown, and for the remainder of the first half touchdowns followed in short succession. When time was called for the first half the score stood: A. M. A. 23, S. V. 0.

After the rest, which the "Vets" hated to see end, it was a little more like football. Staunton worked about three forward passes, which netted them good gains, but they were unable to score.

The game ended with a score of 34 to 0 in favor of A. M. A.

Touchdowns by Acree, 2, Gallagher, 2, Gibbons, 2; goals by Gallagher, 4.

Referee, Mecredy.

Umpire, Robinson.

Time of quarters, 6 and 7 minutes.

DOUBLE HEADER

A. M. A. vs. G. P. S.

Leaving school about 5:30 Saturday morning, October the twenty-second and enduring the roughness of a trip to Lewisburg, W. Va. our team played Greenbrier Presbyterian School the same evening.

The game was called at 3:30, and from that minute until the end, both teams exerted all their power trying to score a point but without success.

We carried the ball up the field in a few minutes but, as luck would have it, we fumbled on the 6 yard line. They punted out and we carried it back to the same place where we fumbled again.

Then they came up the field with renewed vigor and punted within three yards of our goal line, but we threw them back about 15 yards in three downs, and from then on our goal was never in real danger.

When time was called and the game was over the score stood nothing to nothing.

Stars for A. M. A.—Gallagher, Acree, Mor-rasy and Burdett.; for G. P. S.—Conway, Friend and Morgan.

Umpire, Mecredy.
 Referee, Sanburn.
 Time of quarters, 10 minutes.

MONDAY'S GAME

After a day of rest, we faced G. P. S. again Monday, with the expectation of winning, but they entertained the same thought, so it was destined to be another hard fought battle.

We played a good offensive game, and equally as well on the defensive, but fumbles proved fatal for us again, as we fumbled twice on their five-yard line.

They came within twenty yards of our goal and seeing it was a good chance, tried for a field goal which proved successful, thereby scoring the first points of either game. This made both teams work harder.

Gibbons tried twice for a field goal, but the wind interfered. The ball was carried up and down the field until the last quarter, when G. P. S. made the only touchdown of the two games, and kicked goal.

Score, G. P. S. 9, A. M. A., 0.

Stars for A. M. A.—Gallagher, Morrasy, Acree, Burdette and Campbell; for G. P. S.—Moomaw, Friend and Conway.

Umpire, Sandburn.

Referee, Mecredy.

Time of quarters, 10 minutes.

The result of both games was in doubt until they were over, and the good spirit in which our boys took the defeat was admired by all.

We feel very much indebted to the whole G. P. S. corps and especially to the team for their unlimited kindness and the royal good time, which they showed our Varsity. We hope to see the time when we can return some of it.

What the Scrubs are Doing

This year the Varistry has been very fortunate in having a strong scrub team to practice against. This is one of the most essential things in the making of a good team for a school. Little is ever said or done for the scrubs, but they deserve praise from all sides.

Bartholdi is showing up fine this year on the scrubs. He is not only a good defensive man, but hits the line with force, which goes to show that he will make a full-back some day.

Robinson is still working for his football monogram and another year should see him wearing it. He plays a good game at quarter and has a cool head, which ought to help him in his football career.

Goodman, a new candidate for the football team is showing unusual ability for a man of his weight and has a good show to make quarter on the second team.

Hight, a man of good weight and strength, ought to have made the Varisty with a snap, if he could have cultivated more nerve and endurance.

Loth and Braxton are both sure tacklers and will make Morrasy and Fraser hustle for their positions next year.

Hawley, a strong man at guard, who has the weight, has fine prospects for the Varisty.

All the rest of the second team deserve honorable mention and with hard work will make us good men in the future.

THIRD TEAM vs. SECOND TEAM

A game was played between the second team, and a team gotten up in barrocks called the third team. The result of this game was that neither side scored.

Both sides fought hard for victory, but were unable to cross the line for a touch-down.

The game was refereed by Mr. Acree, a member of the Varisty, and both sides were well pleased with his decisions.

Rules for Football

I seized her little hand in mine,
And got an awful scolding,
For it seemed in my excitement,
I'd been penalized for holding.

I stole ten kisses more or less,
I guess 'twas chiefly more,
For since I had begun the game
I'd have to make a score

The chaperon was watching me,
And was prepared to kick,
But it turned out too be a fake
For I was just to quick.

The nature of the game demands,
Of course a set of rules,
But they are only worrying
To imbeciles and fools.

The German Club

The A. M. A. German Club was organized on the night of October the sixth. The club this year is much larger than last year's. The membership up to the present time is thirty-eight. The officers were elected as follows: Rodgers, President, Acree, Vice President, Reid, Secretary and Treasurer. Nicholson, Robinson M., Clark, Felts, Fox and Gilliam, comprise the Executive Committee.

On account of the uncertainty of our football schedule, the date of our opening hop has been changed several times, but we have at last decided on the twenty-eighth as a suitable date.

Now with the hearty co-operation of the members and officers, we should be able to give at least one dance a month, throughout the term.

Personals

If you wanted to hide a necklace, in what kind of a box would you lock it?

Or if you lost the key to the box would you use a monkey.

"Officer! He's in again."

Gleaves: (at drill) Squad— — —w-wh-whoa!

Capt. Fitzgerald: Mason, where is Sparta situated?

Mason: Up on top of a high mountain down in a deep valley.

Shaver: Capt. F., Is one an even number?

Why would a girl be a better soldier than a boy?
Because she is used to powder.

Imported from France.

Capt. M: Fitzgerald has discovered a new kind of fruit.

Capt. R: What is it?

Capt. M: It looks like a peach, but is really a lemon.

Dudley—I hear Carpenter bought a motor boat last summer and named it after his girl.

Collingwood—Couldn't manage it, eh!

Major—John, what did you do with the speedometer on my car?

Gallagher—Oh, I took it off and threw it away, it wouldn't keep good time.

Cap. Yarbrough—Now boys, can you tell me which pine tree has the longest and sharpest needles?

Carr—Porcupine.

Conductor: Your fare, sir.

Acree: Really, do you think so?

"Let him up; he's all cut."

Hight: Did you ever take chloroform?

Christian: No, who teaches it?

Col's. sentiments—

You can drive a horse to water,

But you cannot make him drink,

You can drive a Latin pony,

But you cannot make him think.

Goodman: When is a joke not a joke?

Reid: Usually.

"Officer! Call a policeman."

FRESHMAN CLASS YELL

I want to go home

Boo, Hoo! Boo, Ha!

I want to go home to pa and ma

Rats, Rats, Rah! Rah! Rah!

Hamlin: I'm doing my best to get ahead.

Collingwood: Well, you need one.

Col: What three words are most used in school?

Fox: I don't know.

Col: Correct, sir.

Hight: (in hotel) What is the price of your rooms?

Clerk: Five, up.

Hite: But, I am a cadet.

Clerk: Then five down.

Major: (In tactics) Define, "rest."

Robinson: You can talk and walk about, but keep one foot in place.

Gibbon: (on receiving telegram) I knew it was from F—I can tell by the handwriting.

Ulloa, E.: Do you think your dog would bite me if I would kiss you?

She: Well—er—he never has done it to anyone before.

Capt. Yarbrough: Describe the character of Richard III.

Carr: He didn't have any.

Most southerners are gallant. An exception is a Georgian, who gave his son this advice: "My boy, never run after a woman or a street car. There will be another one along in a minute or two."

Visitor—I understand you have a fine track team. What individual holds the most medals?

Cadet—The pawnbroker, sir.

William had just returned from college, resplendent in peg-top trousers, silk hosiery, a fancy waistcoat, and a necktie that spoke for itself. He entered the library, where his father was reading. The old gentleman looked up and surveyed his son. The more he looked, the more disgusted he became.

"Son," he finally blurted out, "you look like a d—— fool."

Later the old Major who lived next door came in and greeted the boy heartily. "William," he said "you look exactly like your father did twenty-five years ago, when he returned from school."

"Yes," said William, with a smile, "so Father was just telling me."

Col: Dudley, L., translate "Cæsar sic dicat et dirat egressi lictum."

Dudley, L.: Cæsar sicked the cat on the rat and I guess he licked him.

CONTINUED

Cadet: What did your wife say when you stayed out so late last night?

Col.: I don't know, she hasn't finished yet.

WELL-KNOWN PHILOSOPHY

It's generally the people who know the least that tell the most.—Hight.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing—especially if it be a man in love.—Clemmer, F.

"There is no fool like an old fool"—unless it be a young man who knows it all.—Gregg.

A stranger was sitting on the beach where Carson was bathing, when a large wave washed up on him—he cried: "Hey there, quit your jumping up and down. D'ye want to drown me?"
